

Broadband Community Meetings

Do you wish that you had better Internet service at your home, farm, or business? Do your kids struggle to do their online assignments without a trip to the library or elsewhere to use public Wi-Fi? Are you tired of hitting your data cap midway through the month?

If your answer is “yes” to any of these questions or you just generally feel limited by your choices for Internet service, please join us at one of three community meetings hosted by Lincoln, Murray, and Pipestone Counties in a joint effort to address this important community issue.

These public forums will provide you with an opportunity to learn more about broadband (high-speed internet) technologies, the services available from various providers in our area, and how schools, businesses, and health care providers are limited by current offerings.
